TENTH ANNUAL DEEP Youth, 20, Drowned Leres

Mr. Ed P. Ortte, vice president of the 10th Annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo, anticipates and predicts this will be the biggest rodeo that has ever been held in the South.

This annual fishing rodeo, founded by the Joe Graham Post No. 119 of the American Legion, of Gulfport, will be held at the small craft harbor in Gulfport, and promises fun and excitement for the entire family. Registration blanks can be secured at Bayou Caddy Fishing Camp, from Russell Elliott, for your convenience in this area. Boat registration is $5.00, for which you receive entrance into the contest, a case of Falstaff Beer, and eligibility to win valuable prizes, such as outboard motors and other fine prizes. A very important change for your ease and convenience, this year for the first time, you do not have to berth your boat in Gulfport. Use any port you desire simply register your boat and register as a contestant and bring your fish for the judging at the

Miss. Employment Security Commission

Advises War Veterans The Mississippi Employment Security Commission, which adminsters the Unemployment Compensation Program for Veterans in Mississippi, estimates that 35% of the veterans who are now drawing benefits under the program will have their entitlement expire July 28, 1958, Marx Huff, Executive Director of the Commission, announced today.

Section 409, Title IV. of the Veterans' Readjustment Act of 1952, as amended, limits the payment of benefits under the UCV program to weeks of unemployment occurring within three years after July 26, 1955, or within three years after the date of the veteran's separation form active service, whichever is later. The maximum number of weeks of benefits a veteran can draw un der the program is 26.

Under present provisions of the Act, no payments will be made after January 31, 1960.

GYPSUM. LIKE SALT, MAY BE USED TO REGULATE FEEDING

State College, Miss. - Gypsum may be used like salt to regulate Mr. McCulloch has attended sev. the amount of feed cattle will

Self-feeding of salt and cotcommon. A few years ago the He is active as a citizen leader fects from this method of limiting feed consumption. Gypsum has been suggested as a material which might be made for the same purpose. It is used chiefly in making plaster of Paris and cement and could have a price advantage over salt. Gypsum has been tested by Dr. Ben F. Barrentine for two years at State College. Three groups of yearlings were used in the test One group had a salt-cotton-seed meal mixture, another a gypsumcottonseed meal mixture, and a third group had neither salt nor gypsum to limit consumption but were hand fed 1.5 lbs. of cot-tonseed meal daily. Gains of all cattle for both years were satisfactory with no significant difference between any of the groups About 16 percent salt is required to limit consumption of cottonseed meal to 1.5 pounds per animal per day. Less gypsum was needed to get this same result. In 1956 the gypsum percentage was 9.9 and in 1957 it was 144.

Both salt and gypsum appear to be satisfactory for limiting the consumption of cottonseed meal to self-beef cattle, Dr. Barrentine said. The choice depends upon availability and cost. A feed grade of gypsum is expected to cost about 200 per ton which is cheaper than salt in some areas. Reyardless of which method is used one should check consump-

PLANNING

Don't get in too big a hurry and plant on too wat soil. By friends at a coffee party from 11 waiting until the soil is right, to 1, Thursday, May 22 at the using enough fertilizer, and good seed, you can still make a crop. If your land is still too wet and has water on it, try plowing yourrows across the field, with the drain of the land. This should get the water off faster and help the land dry out.

For planting in Hancock County at this late season, put all needed fertilizer down at time land is prepared. Put it in deep, so that it will not kill germination of the seed, nor injure the young plants when they begin growing. Soybeans, grain sorghum and
